The American Centennial.

Our kindfolk have, a right to magnify and hold in undying memory the achievements of that manly conflict (the War of independence), and we have long forgoten the passing bitterness of deleat in the proud thought that only Englishmen could have bailled England, even in her perverse mood of unreasoning tyranny The centennary celebration of America independence is an occasion which independence is an occasion which results no nufriendly remembrances mought as the second number of the second num Philadelphia would, therefore, be an in the teresting historical event, even though to tell very far short of the magnificency of display, the fertility of invention, the ingenuity of contrivance, at which the world has mayeled over and over again, in London, Paris and Vienna.

Bristow as Looked at by a Paper not Pronounced in his Favor. A potent argument in his favor, is that he will receive more votes than any other wan that can be nominated. We believe he can carry West Virginia, and doubt whether there is another man in the country who can do the same. In our State, these are peculiarly times of reform. Perhaps there are no better indications of the political pulse of West Virginia than can be found in Ritchie country. Ordinarily but yery—little glepping across party lines occurs here. This year at the State election, the country will enroll itself in favor of reform, by a large majority. At the intigent cast of a ballot for Bristow, We are inclined to think this is the sentiment of the whole country. Then, in brief, if the national Republican party, wish to certain of success, Bristow is the man who should be nominated. otent argument in his favor, is that

And this grim array is but the reflection of the Union, including Chicago, St. Louis—all, indeed, North, South, East and West. The business is utterly sinking under excopitant rents, the proverbial extravagance and waste of American hotel tables, and the thoughtless demands of inconsiderate guests. To bring things in harmony with the times, rents of hotel property must be reduced to the standard of private dwellings and stores, gauging them in accordance with all other real estate, and the internal arrangement must be brought nearer the European standard, which, as nearly as possible, demands pay of the guest for only what he had, making a distinction between the extravagant and economical patron.

A Guest at a Hotel Wants to Have an Understanding.

[Detroit Free Trees]

3 A night or two since a chap about 35 years old, looking as if he had crawled out of a cave to commence life mew, entered one of the hotels, and, waiting at the counter until the clerk was at liberty, he asked: "Is this a hotel?"
"Yes, sir," was the reply, "Good living, good beds, and the most courteous attention?"
"Yes, sir."
"Well," said the stranger, after a long look at a railroad time table, "I suppose you don't trust?"
"No, sir."

"No, sir."
"Wouldn't let a man stay here four of five days until something turned up?"

"That's what I wanted to know. I al-yays like to have an understanding about such things, for if anything makes me and it is to have a great big hotel clerk jump in on me and kick me down stairs on account of my straightened finances." "You'd better find some other place," suggested the clerk. "Oh! I shall," replied the stranger. "The outside of this hotel seemed to smile a welcome at me; but, as I said before, my present policy is to get along without be-present policy is to get along without being kicked. I've got mental feelings as well as anybody else, and I'm getting so worn in flesh that a mere common grand bounce from a heavy hotel clerk upsets me a whole day. Farewell, young man; don't bile any extra taters for me."

Wenkening on Hans, Good,

[Bitelie Gazetta]

The way Hans. Good and his friends manipulated the Ohio county Democratic Convention, is not a striking illustration of political reform. Still we are compelled to remember the illustration Henry Clay offered to a follower who did not approve of his course in Congress or some question or other. "Suppose," said Henry, "your old Killdeer there should thash in the pan, once; would you break it around a tree?" If accordance with that idea, we are not willing to let go of Hans, yet. Still there must not be much more flashing in the pan, or we will cease to bestow, upon him tor approval.

MODERN WOMEN.

It is a sad commentary upon our boasted eivilization that the women of our, times have degenerated in health and physique until they are literally a race of inyalidspale, nervous, feeble and back-achy, with only here and there a few noble exceptions in the persons of the robust, buxon ladies characteristic of the sax in days gone by:

By a large experience, covering a period of constitue of the sex in days good by By a large experience, covering a period of years, and embracing the treatment of many thousands of cases of those aliments pecu-liar to Women, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N.
